

EACH or EVERY

Don't say: She gave a pear to every of the children. Each child had a pear.
Say: She gave a pear to each of the children. Every child had a pear.

! Use each for one of two or more things, taken one by one. Never use every for two, but always for more than two things as a group. Each is more individual and specific, but every is used more for emphasis the more emphatic word.

ASKING FOR EXPLANATIONS

Sometimes, things happen that we would like explained and we must demand explanations. There are a number of formulas used when demanding explanations:

- Can you tell me why...
  - I don't understand why...
  - Can you explain why..
  - Why is it that...
  - How come...
  - Does this mean...
  - Do you really expect me to believe...

VOCABULARY BUILDING

each and every - úplně každý
each other - navzájem
