

SOUND, TASTE, LOOK, SMELL...

Don't say: It looks/sounds/smells/tastes well.

Say: It looks/sounds/smells/tastes good or nice.

Don't say: Do you see me? I am standing right next to the man in the white jacket.

Say: Can you see me? I am standing right next to the man in the white jacket.

We use adjectives and not adverbs after the verbs that are connected with senses (slovesa smyslového vnímání).

Mary looks really nice today.

Similarly, if you want to make a question which would contain these verbs, you use the auxiliary verb can to make the question, not do.

Can you hear the music from downstairs?

Taste and its Meanings

The chicken tastes delicious.

Taste the soup and tell me what you think of it.

Once you taste freedom you'll never want to give it up.

I love the taste of coffee.

She always buys elegant clothes. She's got very good taste.

It's just a matter of taste.

She has absolutely no taste for sports.

And add some salt to taste.
